Mr. Togakura, son of Prince Fushimi, is visiting Mukden, Harbin, Changchun, and other cities.

"I don't think I shall have any with Canada," he laughed, when he was expressed in an interview before his departure to keep out of their clutches.

THOSE "FORCES BEYOND CONTROL"

The French Government is rushing legislation through parliament "to ally the fear of inflation."

The Government of Canada would call a special session of parliament and rush through similar legislation if it could thereby get rid of the same fear.

Premier Bennett told his western audiences Canada may face the worst crisis in its history, during the war.

He did not say what to bring about the crisis. That was not necessary. The "forces beyond control" can be seen by anyone who reads his paper attentively.

President Roosevelt is hearing the time when he will have to revalue the United States dollar, downward—probably to half its nominal gold value. When he does so Canada will face the alternatives of losing its foreign trade or of doing some "inflating" or revaluing its own currency.

That is the prospect that is frightening our "sound money" Government into a fit of gloom.

NO "CONVERSION"

Three months ago the public were invited to expect that a Dominion conversion loan of $500,000,000 would be launched this fall in Canada.

It was expected that the loan would pay off some maturing bonds, and to call in an equal or larger amount of unmaturing bonds and replace these maturing bonds carrying a reduced rate of interest.

The saving in interest was estimated to run to a very large figure. The success of the British conversion of last year was cited as an example to Canadian investors and as proof of the wisdom of thus cutting down the interest rates on this large volume of government securities.

For whatever reason, the conversion loan of $500,000,000 dwindled down into a refunding loan of $225,000,000. That is to say, the maturing bonds are being replaced by others, at reduced rates, but there is no calling in and conversion of unmaturing bonds.

THE HITLER REBELLION

Mr. Hitler has served notice on the League of Nations that Germany will have nothing more to do with disarmament debates and will withdraw from the League two years hence.

The Reichstag has been dissolved and the German voters are to be asked to endorse his rebellion policy by electing Nazi members in a majority large enough to give effect.

That they will do so seems fairly probable. Whatever outsiders may think about him, Hitler is the man of the hour in Germany. That the voters will place him, and they may think of him as a man of the hour, in the middle of an increasingly heavily-armed Europe, is not very likely.

Nothing is to be gained by pointing out the fact that, to the people of Germany, Hitler is fighting for equality of right for their country with others. When Germany was disarmed the German people were not asked to endorse his rebellion policy by electing Nazi members in a majority large enough to give effect.

Those underestimating him have not been kept. Britain has gone the limit; but the continental Allies have increased their armaments, and Europe is now more heavily armed than when the war began. To suppose the sixty million people of Germany will condemn Hitler for refusing to countenance that situation is not reasonable.

The prospect rather is that they will give him a thundersome approval, feeling that in so doing they are challenging their armed neighbors to do something like disarmament, and not merely talk about it.

A CENTRAL BANK COMING

Ottawa despatches say Mr. Bennett's speech at Winnipeg was interpreted as the capital as meaning that a central bank is to be established in Canada.

Ottawa was singularly slow at reading the signs of the times if it did not long ago detect the shadow of that coming event. Elsewhere it has been observable ever since Canada's Premier visited at London that central bank would be established in all countries.

Nothing is much more certain than that a central bank will be created by legislation to be brought down at the coming session of parliament. Mr. King proposed the establishment of such a bank at last.

The idea met with immediate and wide approval—except in banking circles. From that quarter came instant and positive assurance that the finance department must cut and down to all the proper functions of a central bank.

But the attitude of the banks has changed visibly in the meantime. A central bank being inevitable, that would rather have it established now and under "sound" money auspices, than later on and with other purposes in view. It is now prominently in one of the bank reviews that what Canada needs is a "body of thoughtful and resolute men," backed by the power of the state, "sitting somewhere in session and making monetary policy for the country."

A central bank is not necessarily good or necessarily bad. That depends upon what kind of a man who directs it, under what code of instructions, and with what objects in view. The outlook is that Canada will get a central bank when parliament meets again, and that it will be precisely the kind of a central bank the public do not want and will have no cause to welcome.

Remember that in the eighties, the gramophone had not been invented, and radio was undreamed of, yet Bellamy was a man who invited by his house into his music room to something very like a radio program.

"Plea look at today's music," he said, handing me a card, "and tell me what you prefer. It is now five o'clock, you will remember."

The card bore the date September 12, 1900, and contained the longest program of music I had ever seen. It was as various as it was long, and included a wide range of vocal and instrumental solos, duets, quartets and various orchestral combinations. I looked at the card and saw that it was dated September 12, 1900, and that it was a program of music.

Then I observed that the program was an all-day one, divided into twenty-four sections, answering to the hours. West coast sleep this time. He says he was surprised at the simplicity with which the music was obtained.

As far as I could see she merely touched one or two screws and at once the room was filled with the music of a grand organ. . . . "Wait a moment please," said Edith, "I want to have you listen to this while before you say any more," and she spoke the sound of violins filled the room with the wistful hum of the strings.

Edith explained the seeming mystery to West: "We have carried the idea of labor saving by co-operation into musical service, as into everything else. There are a number of musicals in the city, perfectly adapted acoustically to the different sorts of music. These halls are connected by telephone with all the houses in the city where people care to pay the small fee and there none, you may be sure, who do not like to leave their homes."

This is one branch of art and service in which the dream has been outpaced by the reality.

Bellamy ventured on prophecy in other directions. He has a character. Dr. Leslie, told West how early in the twentieth century there came a certain number of people who had a vision of capital into the hands of a few. Without violence or bloodshed the American takes over the great industrial cities of the world.

"... at last, strangely late in the world's history, the obvious fact was perceived that no business is so essentially the public business as the industry and commerce on which the people's livelihood depends."

"The technocrats, with their plans for a four-year cycle of production, and their work for the year, for those between the ages of 25 and 40 years, will find some comfort in Bellamy's prophecy. The Passing Show

By J. S. Cooper

Gleaning over a newspaper serial which tells about the destruction of the earth by collision with another planet, and the escape of numbers of people from the earth to a sister planet of the inner system by means of a great machine, and the reading notices of a cheap reprint of Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward," one is reminded that the imaginings of one generation become the truth of a succeeding one.

When I read "Looking Backward" as a school-boy, it had something of the same effect as the weirdly improbable that today's story of the clash of the planets has. Yet to read "Looking Backward" today, is to realize that with telescopic eye, in the epochs of last century, Bellamy saw things that are coming to pass in the thirties of this century.

The title is a little misleading, all the more so because Philip Baggeson, long before Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote his book of the same name, had one called "Looking Forward." However, toward West, the leading character in Bellamy's romance of prophecy, really was looking backward on the past.

He was a man of wealth and culture and a sufferer from insomnia. He went to extreme lengths to overcome his insomnia. "Do shut out noise he has a special suburban bedroom built deep in the earth and hermetically sealed for an air shaft worked by a windmill to supply fresh air. Even here he could not sleep without the benefit of a mechanical device."

While West in an hypnotic sleep, the house over his head is destroyed by fire. His valet perishes in the flames. West sleeps on. He gets a real good sleep this time. He sleeps for five days discovered by workmen engaged in excavation work. He wakes to a wonderful new world in the year 2000 A.D.

Remember that in the eighties, the gramophone had not been invented, and radio was undreamed of, yet Bellamy was a man who invited by his house into his music room to something very like a radio program.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

When a famous doctor was asked what he would give a man with a cold he said, "Ten days." By this he meant that time alone will cure most colds. This is true, in fact, to a great extent, yet by neglecting a cold it may be that some serious complications will follow which could be easily avoided by using the right treatment at the right time.

The following is the treatment which I have found to afford the most rapid relief in overcoming colds. When a severe cold with fever exists the sweating treatment is probably the very best measure you can use. After taking an enema, the patient is to take a hot bath and get into bed, using coverings for the body which are only of wool. Hot water bottles are to be placed at the feet and under the blankets used as covering. The patient is to be tucked in, or covered so that no cold air enters around the shoulders. He is then to drink hot lemonade, which will assist in starting a sweat. Or, instead of the lemonade you may prepare a grapefruit infusion. This is made by cutting all the pulp out of a grapefruit, skin the skin into small pieces and pouring over one grapefruit one quart of boiling water. Allow to stand for half hour and then strain. The patient, using from four to eight ounces every thirty minutes.

The patient should be induced to sweat for as long as necessary, until there is no chills or temperature. It is not necessary to change the woolen blankets often than once a day and the sweating should not be interrupted for any reason during the first few hours, nor even give an enema, as soon as the temperature is normal, the patient is to be changed to warm dry clothing, but kept well covered for several hours.

Follow the sweating treatment with a fruit juice fast for a few days, until the acute symptoms have subsided, using orange juice, or tomato juice or pineapple juice. An even ounce of the juice is to be taken every two hours. The fruit juice fast quickly makes the blood more alkaline and reduces the acid condition which is often present in the early stages of colds. It is to be taken each day of the fasting regimen.

Paper handkerchiefs which may be burned should be used. It is also advisable for the sufferer to keep away from all colds and influenza. The use of the diathermy and the deep-heat lamp is frequently beneficial in a severe cold. Some patients, however, find it better to use a steam bath with warm water mixed with salt or soda, or inhaling various menthol or eucalyptus preparations will aid in soothing the irritation.

Local clearing of the sinuses is a very important vital question; if you find that they give comfort it may be advisable to use them. However, for the throat and chest, you should employ the fasting and sweating treatment.

Those who have several colds a year should use the following measures to prevent them. In the first place, use a very large, warm, woolen scarf. Each day you are to eat two large bowls of salad, two or more cooked non-starchy vegetables, and you are to take one large glass of fruit juice either one hour before breakfast or just after breakfast. This will keep you from getting colds and will also build up your general health in every way.

You are to be careful to keep the intestinal action regular. Use such laxatives as the fruit juice enema, the bowels to act freely use the enema. You are also to eat eight hours sleep per night, as you will avoid colds better if you keep well rested. If the weather permits, you are to take a walk every day, and you are to set aside a regular period of exercising. Walking is one of the best forms of outdoor exercise you can get. Follow the walk with a shower and vigorous rub-down. If possible take ultra-violet light treatments three or four times a week; these are helpful in reducing colds. Actress Fights Love Rival Edict

BLONDE CLAIRE WINDSOR SAYS PLOT EXISTED

Alleges Alfred Read Planned to Return to Wife After Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—An affidavit that Alfred C. Read, 37, had been heard promising his now divorced wife that he would return to her after the disposition of her alienation of affection suit in which she recently obtained a $25,000 judgment against Claire Windsor, blonde actress, was filed in superior court Monday.

Attorneys for the actress, who seeks to have judgment set aside, also presented affidavits by three women who stated Read had made love to them, first representing himself as a single man and later saying he was married but getting a divorce. In trial of the suit against her by Mrs. Marian Read, Miss Windsor said that was the story Read told her in their romance.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17.—The end of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences is in sight. This organization, for some years a power in the film industry, started on its decline when a few members, including two officers resigned.

Those who turned in resignations were Adolphe Menjou and Fredric March, first and second vice presidents; Ken Thompson, Paul Douglas, Lester Koolhaas, George Bancroft, James Cagney, Boris Karloff, William Williams, Robert Montgomery, Frank Morgan, Gary Cooper, Ralph Bellamy, and George Raft.

They together with Eddie Cantor, Norman Charles Butler, and Miriam Hopkins are forming a new organization to act as an academy only. This organization will be open to all players in the movie industry.

Trouble between actors and the Academy, whose membership is made up of players, directors, writers, technicians and producers, started over a PRAE conference in Washington to which players objecting to two clauses which would be in the code.

What the Academy would be difficult to state, although personally I believe it means the end of the Academy. One of the principal functions of the organization has been the bestowing of annual awards for outstanding achievements in the various branches of the membership.

It is a cliché that in the future none of the "acted" players will be considered for awards and since some of them are among the most prominent in the industry, their elimination prevents a really fair presentation of play awards.

A WOMAN'S VIEW According to Norma Loy, Max Baer is a real champion in the ring. Unfortunately, clutches don't win in the ring.

TOUGH ON TOBY

The other night Elbert Franklin, Toby's worst friend, called her on the telephone from Washington 3 to 3 in the morning. At the conclusion of the conversation, he remarked casually, "I'll call you again either Friday or Saturday night so you'd better say 'home' both nights."

SAFETY FIRST

During Hollywood's recent earthquake, which shook movie houses as anything else, Mervyn LeRoy doubled out of his apartment building carrying his pajamas in his hand not caring to take time to put them on until he had reached the safety of the street.

CANT MISS THE GAMES

Irving Cummings suddenly has become one of Hollywood's most popular directors, the reason being that he is daily appearing in the Saturday afternoon during football season. He may keep his company late Friday night or call them home on Sunday, but they all get to see the end game.

C. G. A. MEMBERS DISCUSS VOTING

Members of the Civic Government Association met last Monday evening to discuss the possibility of selecting candidates to contest the municipal election next month.

The major portion of the discussion surrounded the question of the majority and whether a candidate should be entered in the race to oppose Mayor D. K. Knox.

Many phases of the question were brought up and discussed from many angles. While the executive felt that progress had been made, hours of discussion were wasted and will be discussed at the meeting to be held at the call of the president.

HORNBY PLAN OF SETTLEMENT IS OUTLINED

Instigator of Scheme Talks to Brantford Women's Club

BRANTFORD, Ont., 17.—Justification of the British Empire Settlement Committee to purchase farms in Canada, bring out settlers of British birth, and look after them until they were well under way in the six adjoining townships.

Today there was not a vacant farm—but where it had been an Englishman, and when he travelled to Lethbridge or visited his neighbors the Russian language was in place of English and what was true of his own country was more or less true of the three prairie provinces and British Columbia.

In passing, Brig. Gen. M. L. Hornby noted that in addressing the Empire Club at Toronto, he had suggested that means of remedying the present unemployment depression in Canada would be to bring in British immigrants of good agricultural stock. A. Burton Thompson, expressed the belief that Canada would see that its own people were employed before bringing in immigrants. To this General Hornby replied that, provided the immigrants were properly selected and properly financed, they would do Canada good, and would go a long way to end unemployment and depression.

He said such settlement would free from assets in the form of land, would mean money spent for lumber and carpenter, farm machinery and clothing, groceries and other needs of such settlers, and that Canada would thus be affected advantageously.

Canada, he stressed, was suffering from under-consumption, not over-production, and such a scheme would assist in consumption.

RIALTO

Grace Field, known as "The Lancashire Nightingale," is showing at the Rialto theatre today in a picture that has won international fame since its first showing a few months ago.

"Sally in Our Alley," shows Miss Fields at her best, cast in the role of an entertainer in a small café where she attracts much attention through her fine voice.

The plot unfolds in a whirlwind of action, melody and laughter, with many a scene to grip one with human pity.

Entertainment of a most unusual character is being offered at the Rialto theatre, where the E.L.P. production, "Trapped in a Submarine," is the added feature attraction.

This thrilling picture, which was made under the supervision of the British Admiralty, re-enacts in vivid graphic fashion the wreck of the British submarine, "Poseidon," which was sunk off Shanghai, China, June 9, 1931. Complete authenticity is brought to this film due to the fact that the moving underwater scenes were reconstructed by survivors of the actual disaster, who also portray principal roles.

The story opens with the departure of the fleet for service in foreign waters. There follows with breath-taking rapidity, the collision with a freighter, the escape of part of the crew; the imprisonment of eight men in a watertight compartment; hours of straining, waiting; and, finally, the escape to the surface with the help of David Gray's "safety lungs." Altogether a notable screen achievement. The latest World news and a cartoon complete the program.

EMPEROR

One of the years most unusual pictures, "Zoo in Budapest," with Gene Raymond and Loretta Young, which opened a three-day run at the Empress theatre last night, topped a list of the most popular pictures in the city.

TO SUBPOENA 1375 MEMBERS OF EXCHANGE

U.S. Senate Bank Committee Takes Drastic Method For Information

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Federal and Pecora, counsel for the United States senate banking committee, last night announced the board of governors of the New York stock exchange had refused to submit a questionnaire to its members and that as a result subpoenas will be issued for its 1375 members to appear in Washington tomorrow for the stock exchange investigation.

Pecora sent a questionnaire approved by the banking committee and containing more than 50 questions to Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, on Sept. 20, asking the exchange to require its members to submit the questionnaire and forward them to the committee.

Last week the committee's representatives in New York conferred with Whitney and Ralph Redmond of the law firm of Carter, Ledyard and Milburn, counsel for the exchange. Yesterday afternoon Pecora said his office in New York received a letter from Whitney accompanied by a legal opinion from Redmond.

Whitney said that the committee of the exchange did not have the right or the power to require members to furnish the information.

Part of the committee was to be filed out by the exchange. Whitney said that would be done but that the expense imposed upon members in filling out the other parts would run into the millions of dollars.

The stock recently completed at Southampton, England, is the largest in the world and is capable of holding eight of the world's largest vessels at the same time.

It is an episode equalling in size the most dangerous ever filmed. "Zoo in Budapest" remains the movie's high point of entertainment.

The main situation, that of a young boy who runs the rubbery laughter of animals for their fun, is enacted before a background of growing clouds of smoke and other objects of the jungle.

Whitney said that the committee of the exchange did not have the right or the power to require members to furnish the information.

NRA "PEGS" OIL PRICES BY DECREE

Fixed Minimums Set to Stop Unfair Competitive Practices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, the oil administrator, last night issued an order fixing minimum prices for oil and gas, with effect from October 1.

Ickes approved recommendations of the industry's planning and co-ordinating committee, setting price schedules throughout the entire industry, with differentials allowed for the various grades of crude oil and its products.

The basic minimum price for 56 gravity mid-continent crude oil, in which class most of the oil is sold, at $11 with variations from this figure according to gravity quality and down in other fields.

Maximum prices for gasoline at refineries were set according to the various qualities of gasoline, while a scale of differentials was set up to govern filling station prices.

In setting prices, Ickes said that evidence submitted to him by the industry's governing committee, "indicates the present existence of unfair competitive practices" and that the spreading of these appeared imminent.

I find and determine that these competitive abuses have created an emergency which threatens the stability of the lower-grade market for petroleum and the products thereof," Ickes said, "and that their continuance and further spread will make it impossible to fulfill the purpose of the national industrial recovery act and the code of fair competition for the petroleum industry."

Last night's governmental decree marked its first effort at pegging prices under the NRA program. The government has already charged, by curtailing the flow of oil and gasoline to market in an effort to steady the oil industry.

Rectory Broken Into And Robbed

The Rev. Father Lusk, 323 10th avenue, reported to police last Monday night that his rectory had been broken into and robbed between eight and nine p.m., entrance being gained by way of the front door with a pair of pliers.

Sunday morning, according to belief, was being continued about $5, with silver, along with 30 cents from the mantle, one shaving brush, a pair of toothpaste and two straight razors.

Deeds and rapids in the rectory were returned by the police, who were believed to have been in the hunt for the thieves, who are believed to have been youths.

On the average, seven stars have a shorter "life" than those who make a success on the stage.
